Birthday Greetings to:

Chelsy Burlison.....May 25

Each Christian should make it the habit of his life to spend a quiet time with God at the beginning and the conclusion of each day. Before he steps out upon the untrodden path of a new day, he should take time to listen to the voice of His heavenly Father from the Bible and commune with Him by prayer. The same should be true at the close of the day, ere he retires for the night.

But they that wait upon the LORD shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.

Isaiah 40:31

Through this reading of the Scriptures and prayer the believer evidences his complete dependence upon God for wisdom, guidance, blessing and the supply of his temporal needs. No one can begin the day well, go on well, or end up well, who fails to make provision for this "quiet time" with God. Nothing should be allowed to interfere with it, for nothing can compensate the Christian for its loss. The tragedy of thousands of wrecked lives and ruined testimonies, which we see around, would never have taken place had these Christians put God first in their lives by honestly observing this "quiet time." Their neglect of this resulted in carelessness of life, slackness in the discharge of their responsibilities, and inability to resist temptation and sinful desire. Then came the consequent disaster which robbed them of their joy in the Lord and their usefulness in His service.
