Bobby Marshall is ministering to the saints gathered in Apopka this morning. He would appreciate our prayers for a safe trip and blessings.

In Psalm 55 David exhorts, "Cast thy burden upon the Lord and He shall sustain thee." Because of the pressure of circumstances brought about by the rebellion of Absalom, David longs for the wings of a dove that he might fly away, and be at rest. Instead he is taught to cast his burden upon the Lord, and he is given the promise, "He shall sustain thee." He now passes on to the people of God, this lesson and its precious promise. Remember, dear burdened Christian, God is able to carry both you and your burden, and this He will do "Until the day break and the shadows flee away." In the bright home to which we are going, there are no burdens, no sorrows, no temptations, for the Lamb is all the light there. An artist was retouching the picture of the mother that the boy had lost so recently. He was removing the lines and the wrinkles from her lovely face, when the son cried, "Stop! ... Please don't do that! ... Don't take out the lines, leave them every one!" Those lines represented the burdens the saintly mother had borne, and the sorrows which she had endured patiently in her life. She had raised children; she had lost children; she had toiled, cared, and sacrificed, and those wrinkles told out the story of her self-abnegation. How sweet the rest of heaven must be for such an one; life with its trials and affliction all over, and nothing but the calm and joy of the divine presence. May we learn to cast our burdens upon the Lord and to prove His sustaining grace and strength. The blessed One who bore our sins, can certainly carry our sorrows.
